

A Certain Fountain

Whatever the height that a living poet ascends on Mt. Helicon another era will change.

– Miloš Beneš

Who has not been detained when pursuing the meaning or spelling of a word in the dictionary, to fall by the wayside:

caught by flora, kissed by fauna and impaled by facts hanging from Tibetan bushes;

to wander in a linear world –
orderly, yet mysterious, often circular – trolls
at a computer keyboard and there! The new “word-world” opening a path to Hippocrene’s fountain.

J. L. KUBICEK